TD Continued

closed moral dilemma. He was not among the great creators of character. He was an establisher of fates and situations. He wrote:

I have been called a writer of the sea, of the tropics, a descriptive writer, a romantic writer—and also a realist. But as a matter of fact all my concern has been with the "ideal" value of things, events, and people. That and nothing else.